2010 SEASON KICKS OFF

People in search of a better life, free from persecution, inspire us to build a brighter future. 2010 begins at the Maltz Museum with programs and exhibitions showcasing equality, self-determination and immigrants who made their mark.

Our cornerstone program, Stop the Hate: Youth Speak Out!, drew more than 1,800 essays from students sharing thoughts about hate and providing positive solutions to affect change. Winners will be recognized in a March ceremony where $100,000 in scholarships and prizes will be awarded.

Martin Luther King, Jr. Day and Presidents’ Day offer object lessons in how hate and discrimination can be overcome. Each year we open free to the public on MLK Day, and again this year community members participated in programs emphasizing that we are all of the same human race.

American Presidents have waged their own battles against hate and persecution - from George Washington’s assurance that the United States “…gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance…” to Abraham Lincoln’s countermanding General Grant’s 1862 expulsion of Jews in Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi. On February 15, you’ll hear directly from three presidents – Washington, Lincoln and FDR – as portrayed by Museum volunteers (see Program Calendar).

You’ll find a fascinating letter from President Thomas Jefferson in Women & Spirit, Catholic Sisters in America, opening Mother’s Day, May 9, 2010. Experience another perspective on immigration through the eyes of Sisters as they waged their own battles against social injustice, gender discrimination and religious persecution. Check out our website for more on this exhibition coming straight from The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.
EvEnTs TAKE cEnTER sTAgE

This November, the Museum was full of energy as visitors enjoyed a number of special events.

We were delighted to work with Siegal College to host a reception for 80 guests before a sell-out lecture at the College. Dr. Susannah Heschel, daughter of acclaimed civil rights activist Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel, joined an all-star panel – U.S. Senator Sherrod Brown, UN Ambassador Andrew Young, Congressman Louis Stokes, Reverend Marvin McMickle and Jewish Community Federation President Stephen Hoffman – as they discussed their connections with Rabbi Heschel, and his essential work on social action and involvement in the Civil Rights Movement. Guests mingled and met the outstanding group of speakers while raising money for Museum and College programs.

A few days later, the stars aligned to create an evening both magical and important. Frances Brent, talented and empathetic author of The Lost Cellos of Lev Aronson (about the world-renowned cellist, Holocaust survivor and teacher), captivated the audience reading from her work and talking about the writing process. Brian Thornton, a student of Aronson’s and now a cellist with the Cleveland Orchestra, struck an emotional chord with his beautiful music and stories of his beloved teacher. The evening was co-sponsored by The Cleveland Orchestra, Kol Israel and the Museum. More than 120 guests came to hear Frances and Brian’s moving performances.

Events like these provide excellent opportunities to further our mission to build bridges of understanding with all people. Stories of hate and prejudice become cautionary tales. Whether we focus on civil rights or the lessons of the Holocaust, hate in word, speech or deed is a corrosive poison.

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

JUDI FENIGER

A recent study from the non-partisan Pew Research Center, Global Restrictions on Religion, shares very sobering data. A third of the world’s countries, home to nearly 70% of the world population, have high or very high restrictions on religion. There are public tensions between religious groups in 87% of all countries of the world, and in 64%, hostilities include physical violence.

What does this mean to us in America? While we enjoy many freedoms, there is still much work to be done. In our own country, hate crimes have increased every year since the FBI began keeping statistics in 1990. The Southern Poverty Law Center documents 926 hate groups in America, an increase of more than 50% in ten years.

What can we do? As individuals, we can participate and encourage our representatives to legislate. We can work to make sure that never again applies worldwide. We can lend our voices to organizations that further this goal.

At the Museum, we’re focusing more attention and resources on generating dialogue and action. Thousands of area students contributed their thoughts through our Stop The Hate: Youth Speak Out! Essay Contest; tens of thousands have taken Museum tours to learn about the Holocaust and the lessons of history (including a new Stop The Hate! tour). Special exhibitions spotlight different ways we can learn from history – please join us beginning in February for a stunning collection of vintage World War I and II propaganda posters, and May - August, Women & Spirit (covered in this issue, and at maltzmuseum.org).

EVENTS TAKE CENTER STAGE

From THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

JUDI FENIGER

A recent study from the non-partisan Pew Research Center, Global Restrictions on Religion, shares very sobering data. A third of the world’s countries, home to nearly 70% of the world population, have high or very high restrictions on religion. There are public tensions between religious groups in 87% of all countries of the world, and in 64%, hostilities include physical violence.

What does this mean to us in America? While we enjoy many freedoms, there is still much work to be done. In our own country, hate crimes have increased every year since the FBI began keeping statistics in 1990. The Southern Poverty Law Center documents 926 hate groups in America, an increase of more than 50% in ten years.

What can we do? As individuals, we can participate and encourage our representatives to legislate. We can work to make sure that never again applies worldwide. We can lend our voices to organizations that further this goal.

At the Museum, we’re focusing more attention and resources on generating dialogue and action. Thousands of area students contributed their thoughts through our Stop The Hate: Youth Speak Out! Essay Contest; tens of thousands have taken Museum tours to learn about the Holocaust and the lessons of history (including a new Stop The Hate! tour). Special exhibitions spotlight different ways we can learn from history – please join us beginning in February for a stunning collection of vintage World War I and II propaganda posters, and May - August, Women & Spirit (covered in this issue, and at maltzmuseum.org).

This November, the Museum was full of energy as visitors enjoyed a number of special events.

We were delighted to work with Siegal College to host a reception for 80 guests before a sell-out lecture at the College. Dr. Susannah Heschel, daughter of acclaimed civil rights activist Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel, joined an all-star panel – U.S. Senator Sherrod Brown, UN Ambassador Andrew Young, Congressman Louis Stokes, Reverend Marvin McMickle and Jewish Community Federation President Stephen Hoffman – as they discussed their connections with Rabbi Heschel, and his essential work on social action and involvement in the Civil Rights Movement. Guests mingled and met the outstanding group of speakers while raising money for Museum and College programs.

A few days later, the stars aligned to create an evening both magical and important. Frances Brent, talented and empathetic author of The Lost Cellos of Lev Aronson (about the world-renowned cellist, Holocaust survivor and teacher), captivated the audience reading from her work and talking about the writing process. Brian Thornton, a student of Aronson’s and now a cellist with the Cleveland Orchestra, struck an emotional chord with his beautiful music and stories of his beloved teacher. The evening was co-sponsored by The Cleveland Orchestra, Kol Israel and the Museum. More than 120 guests came to hear Frances and Brian’s moving performances.

Events like these provide excellent opportunities to further our mission to build bridges of understanding with all people. Stories of hate and prejudice become cautionary tales. Whether we focus on civil rights or the lessons of the Holocaust, hate in word, speech or deed is a corrosive poison.

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

JUDI FENIGER

A recent study from the non-partisan Pew Research Center, Global Restrictions on Religion, shares very sobering data. A third of the world’s countries, home to nearly 70% of the world population, have high or very high restrictions on religion. There are public tensions between religious groups in 87% of all countries of the world, and in 64%, hostilities include physical violence.

What does this mean to us in America? While we enjoy many freedoms, there is still much work to be done. In our own country, hate crimes have increased every year since the FBI began keeping statistics in 1990. The Southern Poverty Law Center documents 926 hate groups in America, an increase of more than 50% in ten years.

What can we do? As individuals, we can participate and encourage our representatives to legislate. We can work to make sure that never again applies worldwide. We can lend our voices to organizations that further this goal.

At the Museum, we’re focusing more attention and resources on generating dialogue and action. Thousands of area students contributed their thoughts through our Stop The Hate: Youth Speak Out! Essay Contest; tens of thousands have taken Museum tours to learn about the Holocaust and the lessons of history (including a new Stop The Hate! tour). Special exhibitions spotlight different ways we can learn from history – please join us beginning in February for a stunning collection of vintage World War I and II propaganda posters, and May - August, Women & Spirit (covered in this issue, and at maltzmuseum.org).
Volunteers are indispensable here – leading tours, in the store and admissions, in the office and on Speaker’s Bureau. Now, they’ve formed Friends of the Maltz Museum, raising funds to help support operations and programs.

They’ll be here just a short time, through March 9, free with regular Museum admission. See some of the posters or learn more at maltzmuseum.org, or call 216-593-0575.

VINTAGE POSTER COLLECTION ON DISPLAY FEBRUARY-MARCH

During both world wars, our nation used posters to recruit, raise funds and exhort civilians to conserve. A collection of vintage war propaganda posters will be shown together for the first time at the Maltz Museum, opening February 3.

These exquisitely designed examples of wartime and period art were often created by famous illustrators like Howard Chandler Christy and James Montgomery Flagg, and are prized for their rarity, use of color and creative use of imagery. A private collector spent decades amassing the collection.

They’ll be here just a short time, through March 9, free with regular Museum admission. See some of the posters or learn more at maltzmuseum.org, or call 216-593-0575.

YOU GOTTA HAVE FRIENDS

Volunteers are indispensable here – leading tours, in the store and admissions, in the office and on Speaker’s Bureau. Now, they’ve formed Friends of the Maltz Museum, raising funds to help support operations and programs.

Join the Friends for Purim at the Maltz, Sunday, February 28, 2010, 7pm to 9pm. The Purim Shpiel is the evening’s highlight - a lively debate on the finer points of Judaism. Costumes optional; wear one, and you might win a prize! Refreshments throughout the evening. $10 members, $12 non-members.

To make a reservation, call 216-593-0585.

Shabbat dinners are also on the menu to introduce groups (minimum 20 people) of any faith to our Sabbath in a fun and educational evening. A tour of ritual objects, candle lighting, prayers and a delicious dinner (from Mr. Brisket) with Friends’ members, plus all-gallery access. For more information and pricing, contact us.

To learn more, join Friends or volunteer, contact Martha Sivertson, 216-593-0587 or msivertson@mmjh.org. We’d be happy to help you find your place “among Friends”.

(1) Guests mingle during the Heschel VIP Reception in the Museum’s Lobby.

(2) The surprising alliance of men from different worlds – Martin Luther King, Jr. and Polish-born Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel – tells the tale of men who experienced hatred and discrimination close to home. Equally hurtful, their respective journeys inspired them to strive for peace and equal rights for all.

UN Ambassador Andrew Young talks with US Senator Sherrod Brown, US Congressman Lois Stokes and Al Siegel.

Heschel reception photos by MSL Photography.
MUSEUM STORE IS YOUR SHOPPING DESTINATION

The Museum Store has gifts for every occasion and people of all ages. Choose from cards, books, videos, jewelry, holiday items and one-of-a-kind merchandise.

Whether you’re shopping for gifts - or that something special for yourself - we’ve got the best selection (and great prices, too!)

As an additional incentive to stop by (who knew you needed a reason to shop?), we’re giving away a Stained Glass Star of David with each purchase of $25 or more. One per customer, please. Offer good through April 6, 2010 or while they last.
Did you know...

- The Museum Store has free, close-in parking and is open during all Museum hours
- It’s located just a few steps inside our front door
- You’ll always find helpful assistance – and free gift-wrapping!

PASSOVER-MANIA!
Add a colorful touch to your Seder table this year.

Inspired by the rich colors and intricate designs of Persia, this colorful hand-painted ceramic Seder plate features a peacock whose signature tail feathers fan out to reveal six spaces labeled in both English and Hebrew for the Seder’s ceremonial foods. From Copa Judaica. Peacock Seder Plate, $60

This exquisite hand-painted matzoh plate complements the Peacock Seder Plate, or can stand alone as a focal point for your table. Peacock Matzoh Plate, $35

FEATURES OF THE SEASON

At the advent of World War I, the poster was the most important form of mass communication in the United States and Europe, so it was no surprise that posters began to be used for a different type of advertising: propaganda. Posters were used to encourage enlistment in the armed forces, promote the conservation of food and natural resources, raise funds and arouse patriotism. Get caught up in the excitement – and bring home a fabulous piece of art in the process. Choose from one of 16 different posters. Poster, $12

Basic Spirit designs and creates products to touch the heart & delight the senses. Their pewter is handcrafted in a seaside studio in Pugwash, Nova Scotia. Believing in the possibility of a flourishing life for all, they contribute 10% of profits to charitable organizations. Measuring 2 inches by 3 inches, this inspiring magnet says “If I am not for myself, who will be for me? If I am only for myself, what am I? And if not now, when”, and comes in a lovely gift box! Rabbi Hillel Quote Magnet, $20

THIS CLEVER CUP WILL DELIGHT AND AMAZE YOUR GUESTS

Each year you fill Elijah’s cup, invite him to join your seder, open the door and then wait. Did he take a sip? This year, everyone will see the wine disappear. Kids love trying to figure out this magical cup. Elijah Drinks Cup, $40
JANUARY

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. DAY
Monday, January 18
Free admission 11am–5pm
2-3pm Free Special Musical Performance
Participate in our tribute to Martin Luther King, Jr. with guided tours of the American Story Gallery, where the stories of how individuals overcame discrimination, prejudice and adversity come to life. Young and old alike will enjoy the special musical performance Unchained: From Slavery to Civil Rights featuring vocalist Evelyn Wright and a trio of some of Cleveland’s finest musicians from Roots of American Music.

This program is part of A Day of Community Celebration co-sponsored by Fairmount Temple and Trinity Episcopal Cathedral.

Visit Fairmount Temple 9am—Noon for music, storytelling, art and special projects benefiting Homeless Stand Down.

COURSE: STOP HATE AND REPAIR THE WORLD: RESPONSES TO RACISM AND ANTI-SEMITISM IN CLEVELAND JEWISH HISTORY
Tuesdays, Jan. 26, Feb. 2 & 9, 7pm $18
Learn how racism and anti-Semitism have plagued Cleveland since its earliest days; how Blacks and Jews were prevented from living in many neighborhoods and how the Klan, Nazis and Fascists openly organized in our city. Explore how Jewish tradition has addressed these issues and struggled against discrimination and hatred to create a more diverse and tolerant community. Sessions will feature tours of the Museum, lectures and discussion led by Mark Davidson, Maltz Museum Manager of School & Family Programs, along with special guests from the community.

Register through Siegal College of Judaic Studies 216-464-4050 or lliebling@siegelcollege.edu

PANEL DISCUSSION: ECONOMY AND INNOVATION: CLEVELAND’S IMMIGRANT ENTREPRENEURS
Wednesday, January 27, 7pm $10/$8 members
Can the fresh ideas, entrepreneurial zeal and optimism of Cleveland’s immigrant past repeat itself to develop a bright and creative future for our city? Join a lively discussion moderated by Lev Gonick, Vice President for Information Technology Services/Chief Information Officer at CWRU and a distinguished panel—recent Israeli arrival and CEO of AlphaMirror, Yehuda Borenstein; international partnership specialist and Founder/President of 5iTech LLC, Leon Polott; and Albert B. Ratner, Co-chairman of the Board, Forest City Enterprises, Inc.

Co-sponsored by the SAGES program at Case Western Reserve University

WOMEN & SPIRIT - OPENING MAY 9, 2010
Artifacts, photographs, video and first-person accounts tell the stories of pioneering women who established schools, hospitals and other institutions and continue to work for peace and social justice. With programs and locally-generated content, we will showcase women’s role in education, healthcare and philanthropy. Visit maltzmuseum.org for more information.

HOURS
Tuesday, Thursday, Friday & Sunday ............. 11am – 5pm
Wednesday .................................. 11am – 9pm
Saturday ...................................... Noon – 5pm
Monday ....................................... Closed
Museum open daily for group tours and private events beginning at 9am and on Mondays.

www.MaltzMuseum.org

DROP-IN TOURS
Sundays at 2pm
Groups of 10 or more, please schedule in advance.

To purchase tickets or become a member, please call 216-593-0575 or email info@mmjh.org
FEBRUARY

PERFORMANCE: KARAMU HOUSE THEATRE: LANGSTON LISTENS TO AMERICA

Wednesday, February 10, 7pm
$15/$12 members

Honor Black History Month with an exceptional performance of Langston Hughes' poetry by actors from Karamu House Theatre. Through stories of the Black experience, Hughes portrays the struggles of all who experience hatred and discrimination. This dramatic choreo-poem combines music, movement, performance, and narration.

FILM PREVIEW AND COMMUNITY CONVERSATION: JOURNEY TO FREEDOM WITH FILM PRODUCER ARTEMIS JOUKOWSKY

Wednesday, February 17, 7-9pm
Free - Reservations Required

Journey to Freedom tells the story of Waitstill Sharp, a Unitarian minister and his wife Martha, who days prior to the Nazi occupation of Czechoslovakia left their children in Massachusetts to embark on an uncertain journey. Armed only with their faith and determination, they helped thousands of refugees and assisted anti-Nazi dissidents and Jews as they escaped to safety. This program is part of a national speaker series presented by Facing History and Ourselves and the Allstate Foundation.

For more information or to reserve your seat call Facing History at 216-321-9220

MUSIC AND HUMOR: DRIVING MR. KLEZMER

Wednesday, March 24, 7pm
$15/$12 members

Hop in the old Ford Tsuris for a back roads, clutch-poppin’ trip—a jaunt through the states of Klezmer, Old-Time Swing, Pop Music and Spoken Word. Bert Stratton—a.k.a. Klezmer Guy and leader of Yidishe Cup—performs comedic and nostalgic prose sketches and plays clarinet, accompanied by chauffeur Alan Douglass on vocals and fuel-injected, mood-enhancing piano. This show has no brakes!

PRESIDENTS’ DAY

Monday, February 15, 2-3pm
Free with museum admission

Meet three of America’s most fascinating presidents—George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Franklin Delano Roosevelt as they tell you in person about their life, times and relationship with the Jewish people. Have your picture taken with one or all of these famous men and enjoy some of their favorite desserts – apple, peach and pecan pies!

MARCH

FILM: MAKING TROUBLE: TO BE FUNNY, JEWISH AND FEMALE (90 MINUTES)

Wednesday, March 10, 7pm
$10/$8 members

While Jewish humor is a nearly inseparable part of the story of comedy in America, the contribution of Jewish women to laughter is less widely acknowledged. Celebrate Women’s History Month with a fascinating look at six of the greatest female comic entertainers—Molly Picon, Fanny Brice, Sophie Tucker, Joan Rivers, Gilda Radner and Wendy Wasserstein—and the changing portrait of Jewish women in the 20th century. Comedy performer, Deena Mendlowitz, co-founder of Friends with Benefits Improv leads a post-viewing discussion.

APRIL

GUEST LECTURE: THE OLD NEW NEIGHBORHOOD: TAYLOR ROAD

Wednesday, April 14, 7pm
$10/$8 members

After World War II, Jews, like many other Clevelanders, began to leave the central city. Many settled in the inner suburban ring and Taylor Road became a major hub of institutional and Orthodox Jewish life, with Taylor Road and Park Synagogue, Jewish Family Services Association, the Jewish Community Center and Hebrew Academy all within walking distance. Dr. Sean Martin, Associate Curator for Jewish History at WRHS, explores Taylor Road’s past and why the area continues to be a center for Jewish life in Cleveland.
VISITOR INFORMATION

HOURS
Tuesday, Thursday,
Friday & Sunday ............11am – 5pm
Wednesday ...........................11am – 9pm
Saturday ........................nesia..Noon – 5pm
Monday ..................................... Closed
Museum open daily for group tours and private events beginning at 9am and on Mondays.

CLOSED
First Day of Passover (Tuesday, March 30)
Eighth Day of Passover (Monday, April 5)
Shavout (Wednesday, May 19)
Memorial Day (Monday, May 31)

e: info@mmjh.org  p: 216-593-0575  w: www.MaltzMuseum.org

DROP-IN TOURS
Sundays at 2pm
Groups of 10 or more, please schedule in advance.
(groupsales@mmjh.org)

For FREE admission every day, exclusive events and reduced program fees, become a Maltz Museum member today!
To purchase tickets or become a member, please call 216-593-0575 or email info@mmjh.org

REFLECTIONS

VOL. 6, NO. 16, WINTER 2010
Maltz Museum of Jewish Heritage

Board of Trustees
Milton Maltz, Chair
Tamar Maltz, President
Renee Chelm
Alan M. Krasue
Councilman
Keith Libman
Joe Cipperman
Barbara Miller
Ronald B. Cohen
Reverend Dr. Otis Moss, Jr.
Grant Dinner
Larry Pollock
Louis Freiberg
Albert B. Ratner
Jordan Goldberg
Barbara Robinson
Lois Goodman
Leo Silberman
Robert D. Gries
Bill Stern
David Katz
Phil Wasserstrom
Margery Kohrman
Judith Weiss

Adie Silver, Honorary Trustee

Ex-officio
Rabbi Richard A. Block
The Temple-Tifereth Israel
Judi Feniger
Maltz Museum of Jewish Heritage
Stephen Hoffman
Jewish Community Federation of Cleveland

The Maltz Museum of Jewish Heritage is a partnership of The Maltz Family Foundation, the Jewish Community Federation’s Centennial Initiative and The Temple-Tifereth Israel, with research support from the Western Reserve Historical Society.

Stop the Hate: Youth Speak Out! continues to touch students as seen here – a student-organized and led assembly at Glenville High School. Over 100 students gathered to listen to student essays and stories of discrimination.

In November, Tri-C hosted a night at the Museum. Students and faculty members from all three campuses toured the Museum and attended a panel discussion, “Generation to Generation” on the profound impact Jewish men and women have made around the globe.

Youth groups are some of our favorite guests! Before the snow hit, BBYO hosted its regional conference in Cleveland and brought nearly 100 attendees for educational programs at the Museum. After touring, members gathered outside the Museum for activities and socializing.