The Stop the Hate® Youth Speak Out!!! essay contest is a yearly initiative that supports the Museum's mission to build bridges of appreciation, tolerance, and understanding of persons of all religions, races, cultures, and ethnic backgrounds. It reflects Jewish values of responsible citizenship and respect for all humanity by challenging young people to consider the consequences of intolerance and hatred and the role of personal responsibility in affecting change.

At the third annual Stop the Hate® Youth Speak Out!!! Awards Ceremony 400 guests heard brave students speak about the scars of discrimination and their healing. From more than 1,700 essays written by students in 7 counties, 25 student finalists grades 6-12 were honored.

Their essays address a variety of issues, from race and religion to gay and gender rights to ethnic discrimination, and offer heartfelt and innovative solutions.
Special thanks to our new host Severance Hall, the students, teachers and educators, parents and community volunteers who made the third annual Stop the Hate Essay Contest Awards Ceremony a huge success. Leaders in the community and friends of the Museum help make this program possible.

One great partner since we opened is Cleveland State University, as a supporter and program partner for Cradle of Christianity, co-curator of Cleveland: A Celebration of Cultures, with on-campus programs tying in with exhibition themes. We host student visits, including their Museum Studies classes who interact with our staff. This fall, we’re delighted to display their outstanding Jelliffe Collection of African-American Art.

Do you have an idea for collaboration with the Museum? Let us know - we’re always looking for new ways to work with community partners.

The word collaboration is so overused it’s become cliché, describing everything from a one-time promotion to robust interaction over many years.

True collaboration is a marriage of the minds, the delicate balance of ideas and execution.

It’s walking the walk together to create new pathways for programs whose benefits extend beyond the partners to enrich the community.

It takes time, energy and concentration to seed and nurture relationships around areas of shared interest. We’re blessed with many true collaborative partners. A few examples:

• About the Right of Being Different, begun as a conversation about showing artwork, became a deep and rewarding partnership with Progressive based on mutual passion for creativity, diversity and inclusion. Women & Spirit took our work with the Catholic community to an entirely new level. Nazi Olympics further developed interaction with the US Holocaust Memorial Museum and the City of Cleveland Mayor’s Office and City Council.

• Regular dialogue, debate, cooperation and sharing with our original partners - the Jewish Federation of Cleveland, The Temple – Tifereth Israel and Western Reserve Historical Society – keeps us close to our roots.

• Our daily work with a region full of school systems, libraries, universities and other museums has blossomed into long-term, ever-increasing give-and-take based on furthering learning and communication.

MUSEUM HAPPENINGS...

JEWSIH AMERICAN HERITAGE DAY

The Maltz Museum brought part of its collection to City Hall, with displays from American Greetings, Forest City Enterprises, Rorimer-Brooks and Rose Iron Works. Mayor Frank Jackson, Council President Martin Sweeney, City Councilman and Museum Trustee Joseph Cimperman, and youth musicians from The Temple-Tifereth Israel and Park Synagogue helped celebrate.

CLEVELAND’S FUNNIEST RABBI

Friends of the Maltz Museum hosted the first annual (Cleveland’s Funniest Rabbi) Contest and Purim party. Rabbis Edward Bernstein (Congregation Shaarey Tikvah), Matt Eisenberg (Temple Israel Ner Tamid), Eddie Sukol (The Shul), Daniel Roberts (emeritus Temple Emanu El), and retired Rabbi and Museum Docent Bud Frankel kept the crowd in stitches with humorous routines as they competed for prizes and bragging rights.

Winner Rabbi Daniel Roberts donated his winnings back to the Maltz Museum

THE RUSSELL AND ROWENA JELLIFFE COLLECTION
SEPTEMBER – DECEMBER, 2011
Russell and Rowena Jelliffe shared the belief that they could effect positive change by bringing together blacks and whites. In this spirit, they founded the Playhouse Settlement, later renamed Karamu House, a multiracial gathering place where members of the community could explore the performing and fine arts together.

Trained at Karamu, a group of talented African-American artists gained recognition in the city and across the nation for vibrant and dramatic artworks that depicted the truths about life in Cleveland during the Great Depression. The Jelliffes collected prints, drawings and paintings that were donated to Cleveland State University upon their deaths.

This important and powerful collection, a window to a turbulent and creative time in American history, includes artists Richard R. Beatty, Elmer W. Brown, Fred Carlo, Zell Ingram, Charles Sallée, Hughie Lee-Smith, William E. Smith and Curtis E. Tann.

PROJECT MAH JONGG
JANUARY – APRIL, 2012
Legend has it that in 500 BC, Confucius introduced Mah Jongg to the world… the tradition continues with Project Mah Jongg, taking visitors on an exploration of the game’s cultural meanings through sight, sound, text, and play. Come celebrate this ancient game with a tradition of social interaction. We’ll have Maj lessons, tournaments, related programs, exciting events and much more as we celebrate the interplay of Asian and Jewish culture.
