Celebrating five years and $500,000 in scholarships and prizes!

Five years, 8,000 essays! At the fifth annual Stop the Hate: Youth Speak Out Awards Ceremony nearly 400 guests heard ten exceptional young women and men speak out about overcoming the scars of discrimination and standing up for themselves and others.

The essay and scholarship contest is a yearly initiative that reflects Jewish values of responsible citizenship and respect for all humanity by challenging young people to consider the consequences of hatred and the role of personal responsibility in affecting change.

We congratulate all ten scholarship finalists and the 6-10th grade students honored for their outstanding essays and personal courage.

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
LYNDA A. BENDER

How would you describe the Maltz Museum? The staff has spent some time lately talking about how to better communicate our mission to the public.

To some, we are a place to connect to the proud history of the Jewish people. Others see us through the lens of breaking down barriers between people of different religions, races and ethnic backgrounds. And still others find a story of Cleveland’s past that speaks to the present. How do you describe a place where you can find scholarly lectures and Cleveland’s Funniest Rabbi Contest?

So we thought we’d look to you for inspiration by initiating In Other Words. Every day we receive letters from people who have been touched by their experience at the Maltz Museum and we’d like to share some of them with you.

Look for more expressions by visitors in upcoming communications. And send us your thoughts!

“I really enjoyed last week’s Museum visit and discussion. I think the effort to get us to feel more connected to Israel is working on me!”

“When our group reflected on the experience, many spoke of their new understanding of hatred and how being silent in the face of injustice can lead to terrible consequences.”

We couldn’t have said it any better!

IN OTHER WORDS...

It’s easy for us to say what’s great about the Maltz, but here are rave reviews from visitors … a new feature called “In Other Words.”

“What a wonderful place. Everyone wanted to stay even longer to look at the exhibits. Our docent was great. Erica Gold - what a story. Just a lovely experience. Thanks so much”

Stop the Hate Awards Take Center Stage at Severance Hall

Special thanks to our host Severance Hall, and the students, teachers, educators, and parents who made the fifth annual essay contest and Awards Ceremony such a success.

“I soon learned that if you love yourself the hatred of others becomes insignificant.”

~Annie Robinson, Aurora High School, Grand Prize Scholarship Winner

“Everyone is human and deserves to be treated as such; nothing less, no exceptions.”

~Kelly Knaser, Wickliffe High School, First Runner-Up

“I do not feel that society is taking bullying as serious as it should be...how much louder can teens scream this message?”

~Robert Edwards, Max Hayes High School, CMSD, Second Runner-Up
