OPENING OCTOBER 10
FROM MANAGING DIRECTOR DAVID SCHAFER

TODAH (THANK YOU) FOR YOUR SUPPORT

Friends of the Museum,

Watching the events unfold in Charlottesville was painful for me, as I am sure it was for you. Witnessing anti-Semitism is personally painful – but no more painful than hate that targets any group of people. That’s why the work we do at the Museum is so important. Learning about each other’s history and culture is an education in acceptance and inclusion. We are proud to provide that education from a Jewish lens to people of all cultures and faiths.

This summer, we featured a special exhibition for young children and families called Centuries of Childhood: An American Story – created by the Children’s Museum of Cleveland.

This interactive and hands-on exhibit charted the histories of five different children and their families as they moved from other countries or across this country, to build new lives.

One visitor was so moved by her experience, she wrote a Letter to the Editor at the Cleveland Jewish News:

Kudos to the Maltz Museum of Jewish Heritage for the wonderful kids exhibit, “Centuries of Childhood." My 6- and 3-year-old grandkids had a ball. We stayed for two hours and they asked if we could go again. I highly recommend this exhibit for preschool and elementary school kids. Great job, Maltz Museum and The Children’s Museum of Cleveland.
–Carol S., Beachwood

Thank you, Carol, for sharing your excitement about what is happening here at the Museum. And, thank you to all the visitors near and far who joined us this summer to teach their children and grandchildren about diversity.

If you want to do something to promote tolerance and inclusion now, I encourage you to take action through education. Join us here, at the Museum, and learn about Cleveland’s Jewish history. Or, visit other venues across our great region and learn about the diverse cultures that weave the fabric of our community together.

See you soon,

David Schafer

Young guests pose like the Statue of Liberty during the special exhibition, Centuries of Childhood. This family said, “I loved coming to the Museum! I loved that there was real stuff to touch and play with. It was so much fun!”

SPECIAL EXHIBITION PROGRAMMING

WED OCT 18 | 7PM
LECTURE AND PRESENTATION
JEWS IN CLEVELAND MEDICINE
$12 general, $6 Maltz Museum Members

The role of Jews in the local medical community includes the history of Mt. Sinai Medical Center but also goes back to the earliest days of Jewish settlement in Cuyahoga County. Learn how the local Jewish community has helped shape efforts to improve public health. Dr. Sean Martin of the Western Reserve Historical Society will lead this dynamic presentation.

WED OCT 25 | 7PM
LECTURE AND PRESENTATION
CADAVERS, CAMERA, ACTION!: HISTORICAL PHOTOS OF DISSECTION
$12 general, $6 Maltz Museum Members

James Edmonson, Chief Curator of the Dittrick Medical History Center and Museum of Case Western Reserve University explores the advent, diffusion, and decline of dissection room portraiture. Beginning with the origins of photography in the 1840s, pictures of medical students posing beside their dissection class cadavers became the most common form of group portrait in medicine. This genre of portraiture thrived especially in the era of 1880-1930, but ended with the introduction of Willed Body Programs after 1950. Edmonson will present this “lost” genre of medical portraits, exploring the formation medical identity, attitudes toward death, and race, gender, and class issues that emerge from study of these fascinating if macabre images from the past.

WED NOV 8 | 7PM
PANEL DISCUSSION
CLEVELAND BRED: THE IMPACT AND LEGACY OF DR. AUSTIN WIESBERGER
$12 general, $6 Maltz Museum Members

Dr. Austin Wiesberger was Chair of the Department of Medicine at Case Western Reserve University and Director of Medical Service at Lakeview Hospital, plus a researcher, teacher, and innovator. Join us for a look at his amazing contributions to the field of medicine and to the community, with his daughters Susie Ratner, Board Chair, Mt. Sinai Health Care Foundation and Deborah Paris, LSW; plus, Dr. Jeffrey Ponsky, MD, Professor of Surgery, Cleveland Clinic Lerner College of Medicine and Yonker Chair in Developmental Endoscopy, and Dr. Sean Martin, Associate Curator for Jewish history, Western Reserve Historical Society.

LECTURE
GUN VIOLENCE: PUBLIC HEALTH CRISIS?
$12 general, $6 Maltz Museum Members

Should gun violence be treated as a public health crisis? Join Dr. Jeffrey Claridge, Director, Division of Trauma at Metro Health; Duane Deskins, Chief of Prevention, Intervention & Opportunity for the City of Cleveland; and Andrea Martemus-Peters, Manager, Community Health Advocacy Initiative at Metro Health, to explore this timely issue on a local level.

THE PROBLEM OF PAIN: FROM HARM TO PHARM
$12 general, $6 Maltz Museum Members

Advances in pharmaceuticals and opiates have offered both relief from pain and the harmful effects of over-prescription and abuse. Join author, historian, and presenter Brandy Schillace, Senior Research Associate and Public Engagement Fellow for the Dittrick Museum of Medical History (Case Western Reserve University) and Editor-in-Chief of BMU's Medical Humanities for a discussion on the past, present, and future of pain killers.
In cooperation with Interplay Jewish Theatre, four local playwrights and 8 local actors will perform in 4 brand new plays inspired by aspects of Beyond Chicken Soup: JEWS & MEDICINE IN AMERICA. TUES NOV 7 | 9:30 – 11AM
TEACHER WORKSHOP
HOLOCAUST TESTIMONY AND HOW IT RELATES TO YOU
ADL VIRTUAL WORKSHOP
Free, but registration is required
“Hearing about the Holocaust, remembering it, and making a distinct effort to apply the lessons learned from it have roused the world to the fact that no matter how far technology is improved upon, human intervention is something both irreplaceable and crucial to a humane existence.”—Leora Schwadron, “Lessons of the Holocaust,” Jerusalem Post.
The Anti-Defamation League program will explore the importance of learning about the history of the Holocaust and applying that knowledge to the present. The session will examine how bias and bigotry have a tendency to escalate if intervention does not occur. Attendees will learn strategies for confronting and addressing issues of bias in their school communities.

FEATURED PROGRAM

SUN DEC 10 | 2PM
FILM SCREENING
THE PROMISE
$6 general, FREE for Maltz Museum Members
The Armenian Genocide is brought to vivid life in this fictional account starring Oscar Isaac, Charlotte Le Bon and Christian Bale. In the final days of the Ottoman Empire, a love triangle between a young Armenian doctor (Isaac), an Armenian born woman raised in France (Le Bon) and an American journalist (Bale) plays out against the horrors of war and genocide in The Promise.
A panel discussion follows the film. In partnership with Armenian Cultural Group, Facing History & Ourselves, and American Jewish Committee.

STOP THE HATE® YOUTH SPEAK OUT IS GENEROSLY SPONSORED BY
ABOUT THE SPECIAL EXHIBITION

This timely exhibit is an education on the historic fight for equality in healthcare and a look to the future of medicine in America.

“Today Jewish physicians are ubiquitous in America. It was not always so. The story of this evolution and the contributions of Jewish Doctors to modern medicine are the focus of this exhibit,” said the exhibit’s Chair of the Advisory Committee, Dr. Jeffrey L. Ponsky of the Cleveland Clinic Lerner College of Medicine and Case Western Reserve University.

In the early 20th century, with anti-Semitism on the rise, Jews were being shunned from medical schools and denied medical care. In response, Jewish hospitals were built to train Jewish doctors and treat not only Jewish patients but also other underserved populations.

“The exhibit tells the powerful story of the outsized role of both the Jewish community and individual Jewish clinicians, researchers and teachers in the commandment to preserve human life at all costs,” said Mt. Sinai Health Care Foundation President Mitchell Balk. “There is also a focus on the critical role of Cleveland’s Mt. Sinai Medical Center and other Jewish-sponsored patient care, research and teaching institutions in achieving this task.”

This important exhibit features over 200 artifacts, photographs, and documents, including highlights from Cleveland’s own Mt. Sinai Hospital, and illustrates how Jews used medicine to assimilate into American society, making significant contributions to the medical world and advancing civil rights.

Experience Beyond Chicken Soup: Jews & Medicine in America at the Maltz Museum of Jewish Heritage October 10, 2017 through April 8, 2018.

Beyond Chicken Soup: Jews & Medicine in America was created by the Jewish Museum of Maryland with support from National Endowment from the Humanities and Institute of Museum and Library Services. The Maltz Museum of Jewish Heritage has added local content of specific interest to Cleveland audiences.
